INCREASE IN EQUIPMENT

PENNSYLVANIA BUILDING LOCOMO-TIVES FOR ITS LINES WEST.

Prosperity of Southern Roads Fully as Striking as that of Northern Lines-Miscellaneous Notes.

Philadelphia Press.

Activity in all departments of the Pennsylvania Railroad confinues, and from the manner in which this company is looking ahead it seems that its officers do not expect any falling off in business for some time to come. Besides placing an order recently for a large number of cars, another order of 500 one-hundred-thousand-pound cars has been given.

No new passenger coaches will be built for the company by any of the outside carmanufacturing companies. How many will be built by the company is not known at present, as this depends on the number of old cars that are to be destroyed. The company plant at Altoona is now one of the best in the country, and it is the intention of the officers to keep the shops going, and unless it is found the work cannot be turned out in a reasonable time all passenger coaches will be given to the shops. The locomotive shops are busier now than they have been for a long time. Early this year the Pennsylvania Railroad Company anticipated a big raise in railway material and bought a large amount of steel, iron and other materials used in the construction of locomotives and cars. There is to be built for the lines east and west of Pittsburg 150 locomotives, a number of which will take the places of such locomotives as have been relegated to the scrap heap.

The number of locomotives to be built for the Western lines has been fixed at sixty, and for the lines east of Pittsburg and Erie at ninety. If business continues o'clock, at the residence of her husband, Chas. | and shows the improvement that it has been doing lately the company will be comzard, aged twenty-five years. Funeral Sunday at pelled to construct more locomotives. Every 2 p. m. Friends can view the remains from 8 year it builds over 100, and at times the new ocomotives turned out number nearly 200.

Southern Lines Prosperous.

From every quarter of the South and middle South comes evidence of prosperity of the railway companies, all showing large increases in earnings. One of the striking reports is that of the Louisville & Nashville, which showed earnings in October of $2,483,000, an increase over October last year of $380,000, and since July 1 an increase of $1,528,000 is shown, as compared with the corresponding four months of 1898. Another road which makes an excellent showing is the Southern Railway, its October earnings being $2,928,000, an increase over October last year of $385,000. Since July 1 an increase of $1,086,000 is shown. The Norfolk & Western is another Southern line making highly satisfactory exhibits, earning in October $1,162,000, an increase over October, 1898, of $151.000, and since July 1 an increase of President Ingalls is much gratified over what the Chesapeake & Ohio is doing in the way of earnings, which were published in the Journal of Tuesday, the October earnings being the largest for that month in the road's history. Much of the increase was from business originating on its own lines the increase being $70,000 over the earnings of October, 1898, and the increase for the four months $300,000 over the corresponding period last year.

LABOR COMMISSION'S REPORT It Reviews the Settlement of Various

Indiana Strikes. The labor commission filed with the Governor yesterday the report of its investigations of the different strikes that have taken place in the State within the last year. The report set forth the fact that the strike of the Amalgamated Iron and Steel Workers, which occurred at Elwood last August, was caused by the discharge of one of the workmen who had violated a rule which had been established for five yearsthe rule being against the use of intoxicants by the workmen while in the mill. The men claimed that good water was not to be had, and further that the workmen had used the intoxicant for medicinal purposes. As a consequence of the discharge of their comrade all of the men struck. The matter was finally adjusted by the miners going back to work with the exception of the discharged workman, who was given a three months' suspension. In the Brazil district where thirty-four mines employ about 3,000 men the owners of the mine refused to allow their men to purchase powder of the Great Northern Supply Company. They could purchase this powder at $1.25 per keg, whereas they would have to pay the mine owners $1.75 per keg. After several propositions from the company, which were refused, they finally submitted the proposition to furnish the powder at $1.50 per keg from September, 1898, until April, 1899. The strikers refused to accept the proposition on the ground that they could purchase the powder for 25 cents less a keg. Since that time there has been no attempt at a reconciliation, although all the mines are in operation. The strike of the coal miners at Newburg was caused by the company charging the men $2.25 per keg for powder which they claimed was 50 cents higher than was charged by any of the other owners. On Sept. 6 fifty men quit work, but they returned the next day and all were refused employment with the exception of sixteen men. The strikers then claimed that the owners were trying to disrupt the miners' organization. As a consequence all of the miners struck. The labor commission arranged for a joint conference, at which it was agreed that all of the men were to be put back to work as soon as they could be sed. This proposition was accepted and the strike was declared off. At Dugger, Green county, the owners of the mine introduced new machines, which the men objected to on the ground that there was not enough room accorded them for their proper use. The matter was finally comprised by the company agreeing to enlarge the rooms to 36x42 feet, and they further agreed to put in one extra machine.

For the year ending Oct. 15, 1899, 572 admissions have been made to the home; 36,135 meals have been given; employment has been found for 102; the cost of food, per capita, has been 0 cents; the total value of provisions donated has been $384.57. The report of Wilmer Christian, the physician for the organizations, shows that the service for the proper care of patients has greatly increased in efficiency and accommodations. The treasurer's report shows he total amount received by the Rescue Mission and Door of Hope, from Nov. 1, 1898, to Oct. 18, 1899, was $4,256.07, and the disbursements, $4,243,85,

He went over and interfered, when the gang released the old man and turned on him, beating him until he got away.

MRS. FAULKNER RESENTED JUDGE GARDINER'S PERSONAL QUESTIONS.

Evidence in the Henry-Harris Case-President of a Life Insurance Company Sued for Divorce.

In the suit of Oliver N. Henry against William Henry Harris, to recover $20,000 for the loss of Mrs. Henry's affections, the plaintiff yesterday closed his case. The character of the evidence brought out by the first witness put on the stand by Harris's attorneys clearly indicated what the line of defense was to be. It is the purpose of Harris's counsel to show that Henry and his wife were not happy together and position, and a smokestack two hundred quarreled frequently; that Henry mistreated his wife and she left him because she could not be happy with him. The defense also insists that Harris made no effort to gain the affections of Mrs. Henry until after she procured her divorce from > James Lemmon, the father of Mrs. Henry, was on the witness stand yesterday afternoon and was asked about the domestic affairs of Henry and his wife while they lived at the home of the witness. Mrs. Dorothy Faulkner, a tall, handsome woman from Greenfield, O., was also a witness for the defense and became very indignant before she left the stand. She formerly lived at Dayton, O., with her husband and was living there at the time Mr. and Mrs. Henry were residents of Dayton. The defense attempted to show by Mrs. Faulkner that Henry and his wife did not get along well together at Dayton. On cross-examination Judge Gardiner, one of Henry's counsel, asked Mrs. Faulkner some very personal questions. The attorney framed his questions from a letter which he held in his hand. He asked the witness if it was not true that she once wrote to Mrs. Henry telling her about two handsome men v ho had come up from Kentucky and were in business in the town where the Faulkners lived. Mrs. Faulkner was asked it she did not say in the letter that although her folks objected to such things she had already gone buggy riding with one of these men. She was also asked if she did not say further in the letter, in referring to her husband, that she was tired of waiting for "Charlie" to die and she proposed to have a good time. "No, sir, never," answered the witness with rising indignation, when the attorney had concluded the question. Judge Gardiner then stepped forward and showed Mrs. Faulkner the letter he held and asked if t was her handwriting. She asserted positively that it was not. The letter was not admitted as evidence.

> IDA STEWART'S DIVORCE SUIT. She Says Her Husband Is President of > a Life Insurance Company. Ida M. Stewart, who says her husband is president of the Old Wayne Life Insurance Company, brought suit yesterday for divorce and $5,000 alimony, and asks that her maiden name, Ida M. Steuben, be restored. The plaintiff says she was married to Stewart on Feb. 2, 1897, and they separated Nov. 5, 1899. Mrs. Stewart says her husband had a jealous disposition and falsely charged her with infidelity and threatened her with personal violence. She charges that he was guilty of associating with improper characters. She began an action for divorce in June. 1898, she says, but Stewart persuaded her to dismiss the suit, promising to treat her right. He fatied to keep his promise, however, and on Nov. 5, 1899, he left her. Stewart, the plaintiff avers, has a farm valued at $2,000, in Henry county, and last summer, she says, she went with him to the farm and assisted in raising chickens and stock. She claims an interest in the poultry and pigs and wants Stewart restrained from disposing of any of them. She further charges that Stewart opened one of her letters and extracted three drafts for $29 each. She charges also that he owes her $500, which she borrowed from her mother and loaned to him. James R. Scudder is suing Sarah E. Scudder for divorce. The plaintiff says that one evening when he came home from work he ound that the defendant had deserted him. She had told him, he avers, that she cared nothing for him. He says he always gave her his wages to spend in keeping up household expenses, but she was extravagant and spent money for unnecessary luxuries.

ANOTHER PIANO CASE.

Judge Allen Renders a Judgment for Mrs. Gibson. Judge Allen, of the Circuit Court, tried another plano case yesterday. On Wednesday the court decided a case where a man was trying to recover possession of a piano in the possession of his married daughter. Judgment was given for the daughter. Yesterday Judge Allen tried the case of Lucinda Gibson against William Ripley, Several years ago Mrs. Gibson loaned a piano to John Green, who procured it for a lodge to which he belonged. According to the evidence Green in some way became indebted to Mrs. Gibson, owing her about $40. In to William Ripley for $50. Out of this sum he paid Mrs. Gibson. When she found out ! what had become of her piano she brought a suit to replevin it and the case came up yesterday. Green, it is said, has gone away. Judge Allen gave the woman the piano.

MRS. O'REILLY'S CLOTHES LINE. Her Sister-in-Law Cut It to "Get

Even," She Says. Mary O'Reilly, living at No. 1664 Harvey street, filed an affidavit in Justice Smock's court against her sister-in-law, Mary Hiles, alleging malicious trespass. Mrs. O'Reilly specifies that she had stretched a clothes line across an unused street and on the line she hung out her washing. Her sister-inlaw, with whom she has had some trouble, saw the clean clothes, and, desiring to "get even," took a butcher knife and slashed the line in three places, letting the clothes down into the dirt. Mrs. O'Reilly says she went out, picked them up and washed them again yesterday and after tying the ends of the severed line together again hung out her washing. Once more did Mary Hiles cut the line with her butcher knife, and Mrs. O'Reilly claims she has been damaged in the sum of 50 cents and asks a conviction for malicious trespass.

Casualty Company Sued.

Cleone W. Huston is suing the United States Casualty Company on a policy for $5,000 which her late husband, Samuel M. Huston, held in the company. Her husband died on Aug. 19 from the effects of a sunstroke. The plaintiff says the company denies any liability for the amount of the policy. She demands judgment for $6,000.

DEATH OF F. W. CHISLETT. He Passed Away in Pittsburg on Wednesday Night. Frederick W. Chislett, who was superintendent of Crown Hill Cemetery for thirtysix years, dled Wednesday night in Pittsburg at the home of his son Richard, surrounded by his family. Mr. Chislett had been failing for some time and his death was not unexpected. The family will arrive here this morning with the body. The funeral services will be held at the home in Crown Hill to-morrow at 3 p. m. Frederick W. Chislett was born in England Sept. 10, 1827, and came to this country with his parents when he was but four years of age. He spent the most of his early life in Pittsburg, Pa., and later removed to lowa. In loos he moved with his family to this city and entered upon the superintendence of Crown Hill Cemetery, which had been selected as a site for a burial ground by his father, John Chisiett, who had been called here to assist in the aying out of a new cemetery, his life work having been spent in that field. It is to John Chisiett that Indianapolis owes the present site of Crown Hill Cemetery, as the eading citizens in the movement objected to it on the ground that it was too far have his way. Attorney Alfred Potts at the Head of the Project. Another financial institution is about to be launched in this city in the shape of a title guaranty company. The promoter, Attorney Alfred F. Potts, in discussing the project last night, said the new concern would in no way be a rival of any of the trust companies now located in this city, but, on the centrary, would work in conjunction with them. "In fact," said he, "many of the stockholders and directors of the local trust companies will be in this new venture. Our principal business will be the guaranteeing of titles. We will not do any bonding business of any kind or infringe in any way on the business of the trust companies. Ours will be about the same sort of a concern as are the title guaranty companies in the East where such companies have been in operation for several years past. We feel that much money now sent out of the State might remain here by the organization of this company. I do not care to tell at present who are associated with me in the com- | mann, 122. We have selected a full directorate with the exception of one man and until he accepts I

What an Illinois Steel Company Official Says About It. G. C. Chandler, an official of the Illinois | 125. Total, 695. Steel Company, was in the city last night on his way South. He says any one who expects steel poduces to be cheaper next year will be disappointed, as the steel mills of the country have orders, at high prices, | sufficient to keep them running for two tal, 660. years, if not another order is received. Just now goods on which there is a premium are being given preference and large offerings of contracts at ordinarily high prices are daily refused. The efforts of the steel companies are being directed, he says, not to seeking new channels of trade, but to developing resources so as to be able to take care of what is in sight.
